

College of Medicine

Phoenix

2023 Pharmacogenomics: Propelling Practice and Proof in Populations Symposium

Rooms E115 and E113
475 N. 5th Street, Phoenix, AZ 85004.

Friday, January 13, 2023

| | |
|------------------|---|
| 9-9:25 a.m. | Registration / |
| 9:25-9:30 a.m. | Welcome/Opening: Will Heise |
| 9:30-10:30 a.m. | David Oslin, MD, PI for VA PrimeCare Study – PGX for Depression Next Steps |
| 10:30-11:30 a.m. | Laura Ramsey MD, University of Cincinnati – PGx and Peds |
| 11:30-12:30 p.m. | Lunch |
| 12:30-1:30 p.m. | Tara Sklar, JD, University of Arizona – Arizona Biomarker laws and state requirements for testing |
| 1:30-2:15 p.m. | Francisco Moreno MD, PI All of US Arizona – All of US and PGx |
| 2:15-2:35 p.m. | Ayrn O'Connor, MD, Banner Health – Topic TBD |
| 2:35-2:55 p.m. | Mark Zubriski, MD, VA Phoenix – PHASER project update |
| 3:00-3:20 p.m. | Tyler Gallo, Pharm D – Evaluation of actionable PGx recommendations in VA patients |
| 3:25-4:10 p.m. | CW Heise, MD – Initial reaction to PGX Clinical Decision support at Banner |
| 4:15-5:00 p.m. | Open discussion with attendees and faculty (on outside patio) |

College of Medicine – Phoenix Pharmacogenomics: Propelling Practice and Proof in Populations Symposium

Outcome Objectives:

- 1) Identify patients that would benefit from PGx.
- 2) Identify medications/conditions that are most likely to be impacted by genetic variations.
- 3) Identify situations where PGx testing and evaluation would benefit patients.