Jordan Coulston, MD, serves as Co-Director for Simulation Curriculum and Assistant Director for the Doctoring Course at the University of Arizona College of Medicine – Phoenix.

He completed his medical degree at the University of Arizona College of Medicine – Tucson, and his Internal Medicine residency at the University of California San Diego. He joined the Phoenix Veterans Administration Health Care System in 2011, beginning as an academic hospitalist and working extensively in advancing quality improvement and patient safety measures. His improvement efforts focus on applying LEAN principles to inpatient flow and transitions of care.

He serves as Associate Program Director for the Internal Medicine Residency Program, and lead mentor for the Chief Residency in Quality and Safety. He helped develop a nationally-recognized curriculum where chief residents learn to evaluate patient safety events and engage in system change. Recent work from this program includes a successful tele-health pilot program for transitioning high-risk patients from hospital to home.

He is a long-time resident of the Valley of the Sun, where he lives with his wife and two children.
